Projects

Amita enjoys spending time with her friends. Before joining the circle time, she brushes her teeth and changes the Mother's flowers. She actively participates in singing songs with the group. While she takes time to learn new and complex words, she responds with a pleasant smile when she doesn't understand something. Amita is working on improving her language skills, attempting to speak some words in English. During the topic on healthy habits, she contributed by creating pictures and charts, though she could benefit from more participation in group discussions.

Mathematics

In mathematics, Amita displays attentiveness and focus during class, closely following the instructions provided by her teacher. Despite encountering difficulties with certain topics, she diligently attempts to overcome them and actively engages with the material. Currently, she is learning to use the abacus and is making progress in representing numbers. While she may require occasional assistance from her peers or teacher, she is gradually developing her skills in this area. Overall, Amita's determination and dedication contribute to her growth in mathematics.

English

Amita is a well-behaved student who generally attempts to sit quietly and attentively listen to the teachers. However, she occasionally exhibits a mischievous side in the classroom. Throughout the course of the class, she has actively engaged in learning various songs, including "A-Ram-Sam-Sam," "Two Little Dickey Birds," "The Ants Go Marching," "Old MacDonald Had a Farm," among others.

During a special occasion commemorating 21st February, Amita participated in a play, assuming the role of a tree.
