When she became confident in forward counting, she learnt her backward counting and she did it very fast. She just needed a little attention in saying the numbers just before ninety, eighty, seventy, sixty, fifty, forty, thirty, and twenty.

After practising it every day she was able to say them while doing the backward counting. Once she mastered forward and creative stories and songs related to the numbers. After recognizing the numbers, she also started writing the numbers and she wrote it very beautifully. In akar parivar she did the arrangements of all the shapes according to their size in ascending and descending order. She was also able to put the missing shapes in between which the didis had removed, and she was very accurate in putting all these shapes. Using jodo cubes she made some toys and told the story.
