Attendance- 180 out of 183 days

Introduction:

Anshuman is 8 years old and resides in the hostel. He typically takes care of his grooming but may skip combing his hair and applying oil at times. Anshuman is a lover of singing and dancing, always attentive to teachers' instructions. He needs to improve his classroom behaviour as he often gets distracted.

English:

Anshuman is a bright student who quickly grasps English and confidently communicates in the language. He comprehends

English stories well, can create his own stories, and illustrate them. Anshuman excels in answering questions based on the stories. He has memorized all 26 alphabets and their sounds, recognizes the difference between big and small letters, reads two and three-letter words, and can write his name in English.

Hindi:

Anshuman is a very intelligent boy who quickly grasps alphabets and their sounds through picture cards. He exhibits clear pronunciation and a strong interest in learning. Anshuman isn't hesitant to ask questions related to the activities he is doing and actively participates in group discussions. He swiftly learnt two poems and two songs, "Lehra do" and "Meri Rakhi ki Dor." He approached learning "Lehra do" with great excitement and happiness. Anshuman tells stories without hesitation, speaking clearly and confidently. He is focused when creating drawings of body parts and various trees. Anshuman has also learnt the names of all the body parts and fingers. Occasionally, he laughs at himself when he makes a mistake. Anshuman remains fully engaged while playing games related to the five senses.

Projects:

Plants: Anshuman has displayed remarkable progress in his studies and actively participates in all activities with outstanding performances. During the Plant topic, he exhibited proficiency in remembering various parts of plants, such as flowers and leaves, and their significance. He can differentiate between cereals, pulses, oilseeds, and spices and identify trees, shrubs, climbers, and herbs. During a tour of the school garden, he demonstrated the ability to recognize a variety of plants. Anshuman enjoyed sense development games, and he could identify most leaves blindfolded by touch, smell, and feeling. He scores an impressive 90% in question answers, showcasing excellent understanding and memory. His drawings are consistently neat and well-done.

Water: Anshuman continues to be engaged in his studies, and the Water topic further reinforced his understanding of this vital resource. He has learned about the water cycle and the three forms of water transformations. This topic covered various aspects of water, including its uses, sources, the distinction between salty and sweet water, water pollution, filtration methods, floating and sinking concepts, and solubility. Anshuman actively participated in the activities related to this topic and enjoyed the learning process.

Air: Anshuman eagerly embraced the topic of Air, participating joyfully in classroom activities and demonstrating great enthusiasm. He showed a strong grasp of the importance of air, distinguishing between air and wind, understanding that air is a mixture of gases, and recognizing concepts like air pollution and ways to maintain clean air. He comprehends that air has weight, occupies space, carries sound and smell, and can produce sound.

Anshuman's speaking and comprehension skills are marvellous.

Body: Through the Body topic, Anshuman has gained an understanding of the differences between internal and external organs and their functions. He has also delved into the details of the five sense organs and their importance. His knowledge extends to various body parts, including the eye, ear, and teeth, demonstrated through his beautifully drawn illustrations. Anshuman is capable of explaining the functions of organs such as the lungs, large and small intestines, kidneys, heart, pancreas, gallbladder, stomach, liver, and more. His performance in this topic has been impressive.

Maths:

Anshuman's enthusiasm for learning mathematics is evident through his daily practice of math, both in the classroom and outside. He actively participates in group activities and grasps mathematical concepts with ease. Anshuman is particularly skilled in written calculations, including 3-digit carryover addition and borrowing subtraction. He accurately performs calculations and was the first to write numbers up to 1000. He is also proficient in arranging four numbers in ascending and descending order. Anshuman's exploration of measurement concepts has helped him develop estimation skills, and he has a clear understanding of the concepts of "heavy" and "light." Currently, he is in the process of learning multiplication tables.

Art:

Anshuman has a penchant for drawing vehicles in art class. He often completes his work quickly, allowing time for colouring and paper folding. He pays attention to keeping his paper tidy and frequently lends a hand to classmates who need assistance. Anshuman is always eager to learn new things during art class.

Dance:

Anshuman has a love for dancing in general and can quickly pick up dance steps. His favorite dance style is Zumba, and he can dance alone or create his own steps. He swiftly learned the dance for Ganesh Chaturthi, "Jay Dev Jay Dev," and enjoyed performing it on stage. His performance for the 15th of August, "Chak De India," was energetic and enthusiastic, particularly when he's in a good mood.

Puzzles:

Anshuman enjoys puzzle-solving and is punctual for his classes. He particularly favors Avengers-themed puzzles and can complete 200-300 piece puzzles with his partner Archita. Anshuman maintains concentration and proper behaviour during puzzle activities.

Singing and drama:

Anshuman's confidence shines through as he sings songs loudly. He quickly memorizes lyrics and often leads the group. He's fond of storytelling and enjoys images that accompany the stories. He can be easily distracted, but he takes a keen interest in teaching poems to his friends.

Games:

Anshuman's favourite game is football, where he's active and enjoys using his tricks. He diligently performs warm-up exercises and participates in passing the ball to other children.
